Reality is a Love Story

Akiva's realization:

Akiva realized that the Human being has to assume the authority of the divine voice as his own voice. In other words, the Torah isn't in Heaven, and the community has to become the divine word. Not the prophet. At the same time, he knew that you can't create Law when you are disconnected from your own tears. In other words, if you cannot access your tears, you can't hear the Divine Voice clearly.

Holy Tears:

Eliezer deeply knew that the secret of Tears is at the core of Cosmos too. That essential process of being in touch with our pain/the pain of the world (accessing our tears) and hearing the divine voice is essentially, a process of love-making: When the sacred text only opens if it's approached as a lover. Then and only so, it reveals itself to the Master. The Da

Ask yourself, what if our current leaders knew the Secret of Tears?

Why? Because the Universe is a Love Story

How did we get here together, if not because we are Erotic lovers, woven together, as Homo Amor. Outrageous Love allured us together. We're all part of the love story. And just as the Song of Songs is a series of love notes - Reality is a series of love notes too. And the reason we hurt when we don't get the love we need, is because we know our life is a love story, so whenever there is un-love, we hurt.

Our enquiry this month:

“What if I took seriously that Reality IS a love story”?

What if we knew that our love stories are not just about our mothers, our friends, children, but the whole thing is a love story.

What would it mean to really know this?
